The grantor named above is establishing a Coverdell education savings trust account under section 530 for the benefit of the designated beneficiary exclusively to pay for the qualified elementary, secondary, and higher education expenses, within the meaning of section 530(b)(2), of such designated beneficiary.

The grantor has assigned the trust dollars ($) in cash.
 The grantor and the trustee make the following agreement:

Article I

The trustee may accept additional cash contributions provided the designated beneficiary has not attained the age of 18 as of the date such contributions are made. Contributions by an individual contributor may be made for the tax year of the designated beneficiary by the due date of the beneficiary's tax return for that year (excluding extensions). Total contributions that are not rollover contributions described in section 530(d)(5) are limited to $2,000 for the tax year. In the case of an individual contributor, the $2,000 limitation for any year is phased out between modified adjusted gross income (AGI) of $95,000 and $110,000. For married individuals filing jointly, the phase-out occurs between modified AGI of $190,000 and $220,000. Modified AGI is defined in section 530(c)(2).

Article II

No part of the trust account funds may be invested in life insurance contracts, nor may the assets of the trust account be commingled with other property except in a common trust fund or a common investment fund (within the meaning of section 530(b)(1)(D)).

Article III

1. Any balance to the credit of the designated beneficiary on the date on which he or she attains age 30 shall be distributed to him or her within 30 days of such date.
2. Any balance to the credit of the designated beneficiary shall be distributed within 30 days of his or her death unless the designated death beneficiary is a family member of the designated beneficiary and is under the age of 30 on the date of death. In such case, that family member shall become the designated beneficiary as of the date of death.

Article IV

The grantor shall have the power to direct the trustee regarding the investment of the above-listed amount assigned to the trust (including earnings thereon) in the investment choices offered by the trustee. The responsible individual, however, shall have the power to redirect the trustee regarding the investment of such amounts, as well as the power to direct the trustee regarding the investment of all additional contributions (including earnings thereon) to the trust. In the event that the responsible individual does not direct the trustee regarding the investment of additional contributions (including earnings thereon), the initial investment direction of the grantor also will govern all additional contributions made to the trust account until such time as the responsible individual otherwise directs the trustee. Unless otherwise provided in this agreement, the responsible individual also shall have the power to direct the trustee regarding the administration, management, and distribution of the account.

Article V

The "responsible individual" named by the grantor shall be a parent or guardian of the designated beneficiary. The trust shall have only one responsible individual at any time. If the responsible individual becomes incapacitated or dies while the designated beneficiary is a minor under state law, the successor responsible individual shall be the person named to succeed in that capacity by the preceding responsible individual in a witnessed writing or, if no successor is so named, the successor responsible individual shall be the designated beneficiary's other parent or successor guardian. Unless otherwise directed by checking the option below, at the time that the designated beneficiary attains the age of majority under state law, the designated beneficiary becomes the responsible individual. If a family member under the age of majority under state law becomes the designated beneficiary by reason of being a named death beneficiary, the responsible individual shall be such designated beneficiary's parent or guardian.

Option (This provision is effective only if checked): The responsible individual shall continue to serve as the responsible individual for the trust after the designated beneficiary attains the age of majority under state law and until such time as all assets have been distributed from the trust and the trust terminates. If the responsible individual becomes incapacitated or dies after the designated beneficiary reaches the age of majority under state law, the responsible individual shall be the designated beneficiary.

Article VI

The responsible individual may or may not change the beneficiary designated under this agreement to another member of the designated beneficiary's family described in section 529(e)(2) in accordance with the trustee's procedures.

Article VII

- 1. The grantor agrees to provide the trustee with all information necessary to prepare any reports required by section 530(h).
2. The trustee agrees to submit to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) and responsible individual the reports prescribed by the IRS.

Article VIII

Notwithstanding any other articles which may be added or incorporated, the provisions of Articles I through III will be controlling. Any additional articles inconsistent with section 530 and the related regulations will be invalid.

Article IX

This agreement will be amended as necessary to comply with the provisions of the Code and the related regulations. Other amendments may be made with the consent of the grantor and trustee whose signatures appear below.

Article X

Purpose of Form

Form 5305-E is a model trust account agreement that meets the requirements of section 530(b)(1) and has been pre-approved by the IRS. A Coverdell education savings account (ESA) is established after the form is fully executed by both the grantor and the trustee. This account must be created in the United States for the exclusive purpose of paying the qualified elementary, secondary, and higher education expenses of the designated beneficiary.

If the model account is a custodial account, see Form 5305-EA, Coverdell Education Savings Custodial Account.

Do not file Form 5305-E with the IRS. Instead, the grantor must keep the completed form in its records.

Definitions

Trustee. The trustee must be a bank or savings and loan association, as defined in section 408(n), or any person who has the approval of the IRS to act as trustee. Any person who may serve as a trustee of a traditional IRA may serve as the trustee of a Coverdell ESA.

Grantor. The grantor is the person who establishes the trust account.

Designated beneficiary. The designated beneficiary is the individual on whose behalf the trust account has been established.

A first cousin, but not his or her spouse, is also a "family member."

Responsible individual. The responsible individual, generally, is a parent or guardian of the designated beneficiary. However, under certain circumstances, the responsible individual may be the designated beneficiary.

Identification Numbers

The grantor and designated beneficiary's social security numbers will serve as their identification numbers. If the grantor is a nonresident alien and does not have an identification number, write "Foreign" in the block where the number is requested. The designated beneficiary's social security number is the identification number of his or her Coverdell ESA. If the designated beneficiary is a nonresident alien, the designated beneficiary's individual taxpayer

Specific Instructions

Note: The age limitation restricting contributions, distributions, rollover contributions, and change of beneficiary are waived for a designated beneficiary with special needs.

Article X. Article X and any that follow may incorporate additional provisions that are agreed to by the grantor and trustee to complete the agreement. They may include, for example, provisions relating to: definitions, investment powers, voting rights, exculpatory provisions, amendment and termination, removal of the trustee, trustee's fees, state law requirements, treatment of excess contributions, and prohibited transactions with the grantor, designated beneficiary, or responsible individual, etc. Attach additional pages as necessary.

About the Coverdell Education Savings Trust Account

A Coverdell education savings trust account (Coverdell account) is a trust that is created to help pay the qualified education expenses of the designated beneficiary of the account. The Coverdell account provides a unique savings vehicle where distributions of contributions and earnings are potentially tax free if used to pay for certain education expenses.

Parties Involved in the Account

Several parties are involved in the account:

- Trustee/Custodian – maintains the IRA on behalf of the designated beneficiary.
- Grantor/Depositor – establishes the IRA for the benefit of a designated beneficiary. The grantor does not have to be a family member. The grantor can also be the Responsible Individual.
- Designated Beneficiary – individual under age 18 who is named in the document and will receive the benefit of the funds in the account.
- Responsible Individual – usually the parent or guardian of the designated beneficiary. In some cases, the designated beneficiary can become the Responsible Individual at the age of majority. The grantor can also be the Responsible Individual.
- Contributor – The grantor is the initial contributor, but any eligible individual, including the designated beneficiary, can contribute to the account.
- Death Designated Beneficiary – person or entity named to receive the assets upon the death of the designated beneficiary.
- Replacement Designated Beneficiary – qualified family member who replaces the original designated beneficiary.

Who is Eligible?

The beneficiary must be under age 18 when original contributions are made to the account. The contributor must meet modified adjusted gross income (MAGI) requirements to fund a Coverdell account. Entities can contribute and the MAGI limits do not apply. For an individual, including married filing a separate return, the contribution is reduced with MAGI between $95,000 - $110,000. For contributors who are married filing a joint return, the contribution is reduced with MAGI between $190,000 - $220,000. The contributor does not have to have earned income to make a contribution. A grandparent receiving pension benefits only could use a portion of the money to contribute to the Coverdell account of a grandchild. Or, a child could use money received as a gift to contribute it to his or her own Coverdell account. Age limits for contributions, distributions, and rollovers do not apply to individuals with special needs.

How Much Can Be Contributed?

The most that can be contributed during a given year for a designated beneficiary is $2,000, excluding rollovers from another Coverdell account. A designated beneficiary can have more than one account, but the total annual contribution to all accounts combined cannot exceed $2,000. Contributions must be made by tax filing deadlines, not including extensions. Contributions must be made in cash and are not tax deductible.

Who Makes the Investments?

The contributor usually chooses the initial investment for the account. Afterwards, the responsible individual has the power to change the initial investment and make decisions about investments for subsequent contributions.

Tax-Free Distributions

Distributions from a Coverdell account are tax free if the distribution is used to pay for qualified education expenses at an eligible educational institution. Qualified education expenses include tuition, fees, books, supplies, equipment, academic tutoring, special needs services, uniforms, transportation, educational computer technology including internet access, and room and board in certain situations (the student must be enrolled at least as a half-time student at an eligible educational institution). The beneficiary must report the amount of the distribution on Form 1040.

Rollovers

Any amount withdrawn from a Coverdell account and rolled over to another Coverdell account for the benefit of the same beneficiary or an eligible member of the beneficiary's family is not taxable. Within 30 days after the date the beneficiary attains age 30 or dies, any assets remaining in the account must either be distributed or rolled to a qualified family member's Coverdell account. Almost any relative will qualify as long as he or she is under age 30. Only one rollover is permitted per Coverdell account per 12 months, and rollovers must be completed within sixty days of receipt of the withdrawal. Also, rollovers must be in cash.

Excess Contributions

In the event of an excess contribution, the excess will be returned to the designated beneficiary. The excess contribution must be withdrawn by the first day of the sixth month following the taxable year (May 31), or it will be subject to a six percent excise tax. The excise tax will be imposed for each year the excess contribution remains in the account.

Definitions

Half-time student – The requirement that a student be at least a half-time student applies to room and board only. A half-time student is defined as one who is enrolled for at least half the full time academic workload for the course of study the student is pursuing as determined under the standards of the school where the student is enrolled.

Eligible educational institution – If the post-secondary educational institution is eligible to participate in a student aid program administered by the Department of Education, then it is an eligible educational institution. In addition to eligible post-secondary educational institutions, elementary and secondary schools (kindergarten through grade 12) are included in the definition of eligible educational institutions.

Important Information On "Float"

Float is interest that is earned on funds held by service providers, generally in short term investments, pending investment or the cashing of outstanding benefit checks.

The Department of Labor (DOL) does not consider the retention of float by service providers to be a prohibited transaction under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA) if several guidelines are followed. You may view a copy of the full details of the DOL's guidance on float at <http://www.dol.gov/ebsa/regs/fabmain.html>.

Principal Trust Company may earn float on:

- Contributions awaiting investment direction.
- Outstanding benefit distribution checks. Float is earned until the checks are cashed.
- Outstanding dividend checks.

Principal Trust Company tries to minimize float as much as possible. For instance:

- We mail checks the day we issue them. However, we do not have control over when the checks are cashed.
- Contributions and dividend checks are normally sent for investment on the day after they are received (hence, we would not earn float) or as soon as possible thereafter. Certain situations -e.g., lack of allocation or investment directions, etc.- slows down the allocation or investment of those funds.

We do not credit float directly to the plans or accounts for which we provide services because the cost to track the amount of float on a per plan or per account basis and allocate it to the plan participants or account would far exceed the amount of float earned. In the end, the amount that we earn on float helps us keep our fees down. Please contact your Principal Trust Company representative at 800-209-9010 if you have questions.

B. Overview

A Coverdell account is a trust or custodial account that is created or organized in the United States exclusively for the purpose of paying the qualified education expenses of the beneficiary of the account. The account must be designated as a Coverdell account when it is created to be treated as a Coverdell account for tax purposes.

A Coverdell account may be established for the benefit of any child under the age of 18. Contributions will not be accepted after the beneficiary reaches his or her 18th birthday.

There is no limit on the number of Coverdell accounts that may be established with a particular child as beneficiary. However, the total aggregate contributions to all of the accounts for a particular child may not exceed $2,000 in any given tax year.

You can open a Coverdell account with any bank or other entity that has been approved to serve as a nonbank trustee or custodian of an IRA that also offers Coverdell accounts.

The grantor must name a responsible individual when the trust is established. The following rules apply to a responsible individual:

- A responsible individual shall be a parent or guardian of the beneficiary.
- The trust will only have one responsible individual.
- If the responsible individual dies or becomes incapacitated while the beneficiary is a minor, the successor responsible individual shall be the person named to succeed in that capacity by the preceding responsible individual. The successor responsible individual must be named in writing and the appointment must be witnessed. If no successor responsible individual is named, the successor responsible individual shall be the beneficiary's other parent or successor guardian.
- The beneficiary shall become the responsible individual upon reaching the age of majority, unless the grantor elects for the named responsible individual to continue to serve in that capacity. The election is made by marking the appropriate option on Form 5305-E.
- If the beneficiary dies and a family member under the age of majority becomes the beneficiary by reason of being a named death beneficiary, the responsible individual shall be such beneficiary's parent or guardian.

- For purposes of a Coverdell account, a family member includes a:
 - child,
 - grandchild,
 - sibling,
 - parent,
 - niece or nephew,
 - son-in-law, daughter-in-law, father-in-law, mother-in law, brother-in-law, or sister-in-law,
 - spouse.

There are two definitions you should be familiar with regard to Coverdell accounts:

1. Qualified education expenses – Expenses for tuition, fees, books, supplies, equipment, academic tutoring, special needs services, uniforms, transportation, and educational computer technology including internet access required for the enrollment or attendance of the designated beneficiary at an eligible educational institution. These expenses also include:
 - Amounts contributed to a qualified state tuition program
 - Room and board (generally, the schools' posted room and board charge, or $2,500 per year for students living off-campus and not at home) if the student is at least a half-time student at an eligible educational institution.
2. Eligible educational institution – Any college, university, vocational school, or other post-secondary educational institution including elementary and secondary schools (kindergarten through grade 12) that is described in Section 481 of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1088) and therefore, eligible to participate in the student aid programs administered by the Department of Education. This category includes almost all accredited public, nonprofit, and proprietary post-secondary institutions.

C. Contributions

The following rules for contributions apply to Coverdell accounts:

- Amount – Up to $2,000 per year in aggregate contributions may be made for the benefit of any child. The contributions may be placed in a single Coverdell account or in multiple Coverdell accounts. There is no limit on the number of Coverdell accounts that may be established designating a child as beneficiary, as long as the total contributions to all accounts do not exceed $2,000.
- Timing – Contributions must be made by the tax filing deadline, not including extensions of the year to which they apply.
- Type – Contributions will be accepted in cash only.
- Restrictions – Any individual (including the child) may contribute to a Coverdell account if the individual's modified adjusted gross income (MAGI) for the taxable year is no more than $95,000 ($190,000 for married taxpayers filing jointly). The $2,000 limit is reduced for individuals with modified adjusted gross income between $95,000 and $110,000 (between $190,000 and $220,000 for married taxpayers filing jointly). Taxpayers with MAGI above $110,000 ($220,000 if married filing jointly) cannot make contributions to anyone's Coverdell account.

To figure your maximum contribution:

MAGI – Max limit of $95,000
$$2000 \text{ Maximum X (assumes single filer) = Contribution}$
$$15,000 \text{ (spread between}$ $$95,000 \text{ and } $1,000,000)$

For instance, an unmarried taxpayer with MAGI of $96,500 could make a maximum contribution per child of $200 for that year ($$2000 \text{ X } ($96,500 - $95,000) / $15,000 = \200).

- Deductibility – Contributions to a Coverdell account are not tax-deductible.

- Excess Contributions – There are three ways you can overcontribute to the account. They are:
 - 1) If the aggregate contributions for the benefit of a particular child exceed $2,000 for a calendar year,
 - 2) If the contributions exceed the contribution limit based on the contributor's MAGI, even if less than $2,000, or
 - 3) If contributions are made to the account after the designated beneficiary turns 18.

The excess contribution must be withdrawn by the first day of the sixth month following the taxable year (May 31), or it will be subject to a six percent excise tax. The excise tax will be imposed for each year the excess contribution remains in the account.

D. Rollovers

In general:

- Funds from a Coverdell account can only be deposited to another Coverdell account,
- Funds must be deposited not later than 60 days after the date the distribution is made,
- The receiving Coverdell account must be for the benefit of the same beneficiary or a member of the beneficiary's family (as described in Section B),
- The beneficiary of the receiving Coverdell Account must not have attained age 30 as of the date the funds are deposited,
- Only one rollover is allowed per 12-month period,
- The $2,000 limit does not apply to rollover contributions,
- Rollovers must be made in the form of cash.

E. Investments

The grantor has the authority to direct the trustee regarding the investment of the amount the grantor assigns to the trust (plus earnings). The responsible individual, however, can redirect the trustee regarding such amount and any additional contributions (and earnings) to the trust.

No part of the trust funds may be invested in life insurance contracts.

The assets of the trust may not be commingled with other property except in a common trust fund or common investment fund.

No investments in Limited Partnerships or Limited Liability Companies are permitted in Principal Trust Company's Coverdell accounts.

It is the responsibility of the responsible individual to select and direct the investment of the trust fund, either in person or through an investment manager. Selection of investments may be made in common stocks, government and corporate bonds, mutual funds, savings programs, certain option transactions, and other lawful trust investments as stated in the trust document. Investments not generating confirmations must be accompanied by additional written instructions. An investment in collectibles with the exception of certain U.S. minted coins, will be treated as a distribution under IRC section 408(m). Although brokerage firms may provide investment information to your account, they do not intend that any information given by them will serve as a primary basis for investment decisions. Furthermore, it is our understanding that you will exercise independent judgment in making your investment decisions. The broker is only acting as the trustee's agent for the purpose of the completion of the application and for providing brokerage services as outlined in the Coverdell account. Any questions concerning the authority of your broker should be directed to the trustee. The broker is not an employee of Principal Trust Company, and Principal Trust Company does not supervise or control the activity of the broker.

F. Distributions

Distributions to a beneficiary are tax free if:

- The amount of the withdrawal does not exceed the beneficiary's qualified education expenses (as defined in IRC section 530. See Section B above for a summary),
- The designated beneficiary is enrolled in an eligible educational institution (as defined in IRC section 530. See Section B above for a summary).

The beneficiary may be enrolled full-time, half-time, or less than half-time.

If the beneficiary withdraws an amount from a Coverdell account and does not have any qualified education expenses during the taxable year, the portion of the distribution that represents earnings that have accumulated tax-free in the account, are taxable. The taxable portion of the distribution is also subject to a 10 percent additional tax, unless an exception applies. Exceptions are:

- 1) Payments made to a death beneficiary (or to the estate of the beneficiary) on or after the death of the designated beneficiary;
- 2) Made to the beneficiary on account of being disabled (within the meaning of IRC section 72(m)(7));
- 3) Made on account of a scholarship, allowance, or payment described in IRC section 25A(g)(2), received by the account holder to the extent the amount of the payment or distribution does not exceed the amount of the scholarship, allowance, or payment; or
- 4) The beneficiary elects to waive the tax exempt benefit under IRC section 503(d)(2).

Required Distributions

Any balance remaining in a Coverdell account must be distributed:

- within 30 days of the date the beneficiary attains age 30, or
- within 30 days after the date of death of such beneficiary.

If the beneficiary withdraws the funds from the account, they will be subject to income tax and the additional 10 percent tax on the amount that represent earnings.

The beneficiary may also:

- roll over the funds to another Coverdell account for the benefit of a member of his or her family who has not attained age 30, or
- if the terms of the trust so permit, change the beneficiary to a new beneficiary who is a member of the previous beneficiary's family who has not attained age 30 (See Section B).

Amounts rolled over in compliance with the requirements in Section D or when the beneficiary is changed to a family member will not be includible in income or subject to the 10 percent tax.

Special Rules

- Death and Divorce

The transfer of a beneficiary's interest in a Coverdell account to a spouse under a divorce or separation agreement described in IRC section 71(b)(2) will not be considered a taxable transfer. Furthermore, the interest, after such transfer, will be treated as a Coverdell account with the spouse as the beneficiary.

If the beneficiary dies and the surviving spouse is the designated death beneficiary; the surviving spouse may treat the account as if he or she were the account holder.

- Special Needs

Age limits for contributions, distributions, and rollovers do not apply to individuals with special needs.

G. Financial Disclosure

1) The amount of the money that will be available at any period of time will depend on the following:

- Amount of contributions
- Total year of participation
- Earnings including interest, dividends, realized and unrealized gain and loss
- Expenses

A guaranteed return or projected amount cannot be furnished because of the numerous investments available to you.

2) Fees are charged by the Trustee on an annual basis. Refer to the attached Schedule of Fees.

In the event that the trustee's compensation, taxes, and expenses are not paid within a reasonable time after demand for such payment has been made by the trustee on the responsible individual, the trustee will charge the trust funds such fees, taxes, and expenses. The trustee may also liquidate such assets of the trust funds for such purposes as in its sole discretion it shall determine. The custodian will collect such fees, taxes, and expenses for the trustee as so directed by the trustee.

In the event the account becomes delinquent and it becomes necessary to collect the balance through the services of a collection agency, the responsible individual will be responsible for the fees of such collection agency, separate from the fees due to the trustee.

The trustee reserves the right to revise the fee schedule and will provide ample notice of any such revision to the responsible individual.

H. Form 5498

Form 5498-ESA will be completed by the trustee and forwarded to the beneficiary and the IRS. This form reports contributions and rollovers received during the year. To ensure accuracy of the form, the individual's cash statement from the brokerage firm must reflect whether money coming into the account is a contribution or rollover.
